Accessing a Departmental Account (for account owners only)

NOTE: Following migration to bConnected on June 2, 2014 at 9:00 a.m., departmental email accounts can initially be accessed only by the account’s owners or managers. 2.) From the resulting menu, click Sign out.

4.) Click the Login via Calnet button then enter your CalnetID and password at the prompt
5.) Click on the bApps (Google) button

6.) Select the account which corresponds to the username of the departmental email address.

Welcome to bConnected! We provide a set of online communication and collaboration applications including Mail, Calendar, Chat, Contacts, and Drive. As part of Google Apps for Education, these apps help facilitate teaching, learning, research, and administrative functions across campus. Log in once, then open different tools using the grid at the top right of the bConnected screen. Read more.

Departmental accounts are for University business or the activities of a department or unit rather than a specific person. These accounts have all the same tools as an individual bConnected account, such as bMail and Drive. New login procedure: You must be completely logged out and open a different browser to log in using the full departmental account email address (including @berkeley.edu), plus the key (as the password).
